Thanks to all for responding to the survey. It appears that most respondents have access to Google Docs, so we'll plan to use that tool to store repository information.

I'll be in touch with next steps in the coming week or so. If you have questions in the meantime, please let me know.

Hello all -

As your new NASSGAP web committee chair, I want to thank you for volunteering to help move the organization forward. The next couple months will be busy. First order of business - a quick survey.

Background:

The current NASSGAP website stores many historical documents, which we'll need to move to another repository. Dropbox and Google Docs have been suggested as tools that could be used as the repository. We only plan to transfer the last three years of documents to the new website repository, along with a few key historical documents. So, the plan is that Dropbox or Google Docs would store the rest of our historical NASSGAP information.

The hope is to get assistance from members of this committee in transferring these historical documents.

Survey:

I'm interested in who has access to dropbox, google docs, both or neither. Please respond to the doodle poll below by the end of the day Monday (11/6) if possible.

I had to get creative to use a doodle poll, so here is a quick explanation: Both dates on the survey are Nov 1, but below that date you will see 'Google Docs' and 'Dropbox' listed in each column. Just click the box under whichever one you have access too (or both or neither).

If you have questions, please let me know!
